Sorry, you missed the first of my several emails because I got your email backwards. Maybe this introductory email will clarify things.

Here are some notes from my reading of the pre-prioritization text. In general, I thought that the overall effort is spot on. We should be giving the public a variety of ideas describing how we are thinking and soliciting feedback and even other ideas. The ORD piece is overly long, but can be finessed by placing a lot of this into an appendix (or as links) as appropriate.

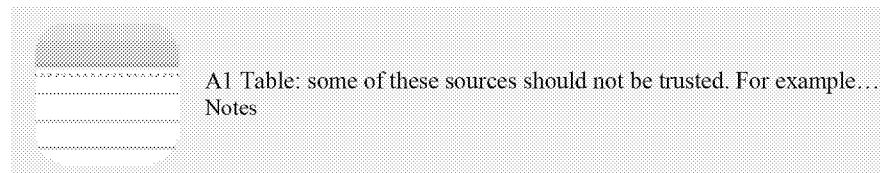

Attached are some notes taken on this text. Obviously my comments are helpful only as much as I understand the overall process. Admittedly I am still learning this. Thus, perhaps as expected, my comments are limited to more toxicological principles.

I will be sending other notes as well. Still learning how to use this iPad...

Cheers!

Mike
